Town Agent's Report

There were five suits brought against the Town of Scarborough during the past year on account of the accident at the Nonesuch bridge on the State Highway, May 31, 1916. Three of the suits, brought by the administrators of the estates of Mason Herman, Mary Gallatly and Harriet Fuller were in the U. S. District Court, they being out of State parties, and were tried at the October term before Judge Hale and a verdict was rendered in favor of the Town. The other two suits, those of Harry Shrensky and Harry Carvel, were brought in the Superior Court and were dismissed at the October term of that court. The expense of defending these suits has been considerable as we felt, owing to the amount involved, we should have the best counsel we could obtain, and the cases thoroughly prepared. We have the promise of the State Highway Commission that the State will recompense the Town for the expense of defending these suits. These cases have all been finally disposed of, and there are no other cases at present in which the Town is interested

School Report

To the Citizens of Scarborough:

SERVICE is the watchword of the times. Our nation is demanding that every institution and every citizen not only "do his bit" but do his best. Thus we come to you at this time to report the progress in the Scarborough schools and to urge increased assistance to the schools as a medium through which service may be rendered to Town, State and Nation.

In order to see clearly the aims of the schools, as well as their achievements, it must be understood that education is not stationary but rapidly progressing and expanding, especially now while all of our institutions are being tested in-order to discover and correct any inherent weakness. Thus as we watch the growth of our educational structure, we should take care lest some bit of temporary staging be allowed to distract our attention from growth of the structure as a whole.

The schools of Scarborough have an enviable record of service during the past year. The service of the pupils interested in the preservation and care of buildings has been continued. One example of this was the building of a temporary cesspool by the boys of the High school, which saved time for their school and money for the town. Furthermore our pupils have served their Country, as well as they have served their schools. Three very successful undertakings were the Garden Club, Corn Club and Pig Club. Aside from the main achievement, a material increase in the food production of the country, it is interesting to note that our pupils won several of the county prizes in this work. We are also proud to state that Leon R. Leary, on account of his excellent work in written English, was one of two county contestants selected to read, at a meeting of the Portland Rotary Club, his composition on "How I Raised my Pig." But perhaps the most convincing proof of service by our boys and girls was their response to the various patriotic appeals of the year. Special credit is due Fred L. Richardson, Harold E. Emmons, Raymond T. Libby, Mertrude W. Emerson and Otho P. Baker, who pledged themselves to earn and contribute ten dollars to the Y. M. C. A. Red Triangle fund. These things are mentioned here, not only because we feel that our boys and girls should receive credit for their efforts, but because these efforts are of considerable educational value and present definite training for citizenship. It is hoped that the agricultural work will be increased during the coming year. In this connection it would seem advisable, if a sufficient demand is felt, to supplement it by a Summer school, dealing with kindred subjects. The value of this Club work is so evident that the University of Maine, with the approval of the State Department of Education, has recommended that one credit in school work be given for four successful seasons ol club work.

A great cause for gratification this year has been the continuous service of our teachers, even in the High school, up to the present time, a somewhat unusual advantage for our system. It is the more unusual because, owing to the unprecedented demand for teachers to fill vacancies caused directly or indirectly by the war, many systems larger and more extensively equipped than ours have suffered serious loss of their teaching force. Our present favorable situation in this line is partly due to financial increases recommended in our last report and made possible during the past year. In view of the increasing competition for teachers, it is urged that everything possible be done to reward the faithfulness of our present teaching force. The recommendation made last year that through the co-operation of pupils, teachers and citizens, money may be saved from the repair fund and applied to deserved increases in salaries, is even more applicable this year owing to the conditions outlined.

The very satisfactory work in the High School this year has been, to a considerable degree, due to the good fortune just mentioned.

The changes in High school methods this year have been quite marked. Supervised study has been tried out to a limited extent and has proven very satisfactory. The work in mathematics has improved by a co-operative arrangement with the Oak Hill Grammar school, whereby beginners' algebra and practical arithmetic are now combined as introductory mathematics, under the instruction of Miss Lida E. Libby. Recognizing that for the best results in any foreign language its study should begin as early as possible, we have introduced conversational French in the ninth grade and to a limited extent in the eighth grade. An important innovation is the introduction of household arts one afternoon of each week, which at the present time is affiliated with the girls' club work carried on by the University of Maine. The development of strong courses in Domestic Science and Manual Training is an imperative need of the school.

The High school and the grades at Oak Hill have reached the point where some wide-spread changes are necessary and these will be taken up as our recommendations for the near future.

COMMON SCHOOLS

We are happy to note that the introduction of the Primary and Grammar groupings with a competent teacher in charge of each group where the number of pupils permits, has produced results even beyond our expectations. It has raised the standard of the work in all the grades and proved the correctness of the reasons for which such change was recommended. The numbers in the different groups of the various schools may be seen by referring to the table at the end of this report. In one or two isolated and temporary instances, the abnormal winter has caused a low attendance among the smaller children which, for short periods, have seemed to make two teachers in one school unnecessary. However, the cases were temporary and abnormal. Moreover, in one way this seeming misfortune has worked to our advantage as it made us more secure in meeting possible loss of teachers, either temporary through illness or permanent through removal to other systems, which, as has been explained, is one of the greatest obstacles which every superintendent now has to overcome.

As previously intimated, housing conditions at Oak Hill demand a change and proposals along these lines are made below.

RECOMMENDATIONS

In addition to the possible extension school, special efforts to retain teachers and general co-operation, which has been mentioned elsewhere, there are three recommendations, probably the most urgent and necessary changes it has been the honor of your superintendent to recommend.

The first two are closely related, for the second depends largely on the first. First is the provision for additional school room at Oak Hill for both High school and grades. Second is the final reorganization of our school system, aiming at the junior-senior High school plan.

The growing necessity for additional room at Oak Hill was called to your attention last year and the need this year has increased considerably. The High school has become crowded and will probably in the next year outgrow its facilities. Its needs are two-fold: more room and opportunity for better equipment. The enrollment this year was sixty in all classes, six of whom, according to expectations, will graduate next June. The entering class next fall is in round numbers a possible thirty-six. This shows clearly the need for more room. The need for better equipment is no less urgent. We are pleased to state that at present all parts of our town are represented in our High school enrollment. In other words, the value of our school has become recognized and it is gaining in its competition with surrounding institutions. It is obvious that no school will instill in the hearts of our young people loyalty to Scarborough as well as our own school. But if we are to retain and increase the progress which has been so difficult to begin, we must provide the progressive and practical courses offered around us. There must be adequate opportunity for domestic science, manual training and other forms of vocational training. This is not merely the demand of competition; it is the demand of our Country. Many of the requests of the State Department of Education this year have been along these lines. The lack of these facilities was the most serious criticism from the State Agent for Secondary schools, after his inspection of our system. The State and Nation are demanding this change for our pupils, both as an equipment for war, and as preparation for that glorious period of opportunity after the war.

The only permanent and adequate way to meet the situation is the erection of a new High school. This has passed beyond the stage of a desirable addition to our system and has become a necessity. While it is recognized that there are many obstacles to actual building at present, in view of the time which must elapse before the building is ready for use, we urge that the preliminary plans be laid at once and the work advanced as fast as practicable. In addition to overcoming the evils named, this measure will allow the use of the entire present building for Grammar grades, if desirable, and will prepare the way for the change in system, which is our second recommendation.

That change is a more complete co-ordination between the High and Grammar schools. The two teacher plan, making possible definite and complete Grammar school training in several centers, as has already been indicated, has afforded better preparation for High school. However, although it is the best we have been able to accomplish under past and present conditions, it is not the ultimate best for our community. The next, and probably the final step, in securing the best is the provision gradually for a central Grammar school leading toward the junior-senior High school plan. Even as far back as 1913, Dr. Payson Smith, then our State Superintendent, recommended centralization of the upper grades. The present State Superintendent and the Agent for Secondary schools now heartily urge such a plan.

Under the junior-senior High school plan, as ultimately reached, all pupils would be in three groups: the elementary group, grades I-VI, located in the different schools as at present; the junior group, grades VII-IX, centralized near the High school; and the senior group, grades X to XII in the same situation. In the elementary group, the child lays his foundation; in the intermediate or junior group, the methods of teaching are adapted to physiological and mental changes in the child and he is able to find himself by a differentiation of subjects studied under teachers of different personalities, both High and Grammar school teachers having a part in the work at this stage; in the senior group, the senior High school, the boy or girl begins intensive work along lines he has discovered during the junior stage to be the most congenial and profitable for him. The greatest advantage is the closing of the gap between Grammar and High school, making High school more attractive and the advance to it an easy and natural step. In addition, centralization of the higher grades would lead to greater economy in providing Grammar school training. Thus the original cost of building, which must be met soon under any system, will be partly offset by economy in running expenses and, more important, marked increase in efficiency and training for citizenship.

Lest misunderstanding should arise, let it be clearly understood that the advance toward the ultimate goal of the junior-senior grouping would be gradual. That obstacles are present is clearly recognized and changes will be made only as these obstacles have been removed and the co-operation of the citizens concerned was assured. The ultimate is outlined at this time to show that definite plans are being followed and our aim is the best.

The final recommendation is for the introduction of a course in physical training along the lines proposed by the State Department of Education for grades VII-XII, which are as follows:

1. The course in health training compulsory for all pupils with such modification as the medical examiner may prescribe.

2. Competent medical examination sufficiently thorough to safeguard the individual and direct the corrective exercises required.

3. Systematic health instruction dealing with practical hygiene for the individual and community sanitation.

4. Corrective exercises, consisting of setting up exercises, marching, drills, etc., for individual and group development.

5. Directed group play and athletics. The primary aim to secure the participation of the largest possible number of pupils in play activities that may be co-ordinated with corrective exercises and health instruction.

6. The instruction and training to be carried on by the regular teachers with the advice of the examiner.

7. The program to be made feasible for schools without special facilities.

8. Credit amounting to at least ten per cent of the total credits required for graduation based on actual progress made as in other courses. The time required sufficient to justify the credit given, but not less than ninety minutes per week.

The need of this is urged by higher educational authorities as a patriotic duty. A sound body is as necessary as a well-trained mind, and the task of obtaining all round physical development of our young citizens is becoming, even in rural communities, more and more the duty of the schools.

In closing, we wish to thank the members of the school committee, teachers, pupils, in fact all citizens whose efforts have aided in making the past school year successful.

Respectfully submitted,

F. H. B. HEALD,
Superintendent.
